

Travel Advisory

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) states travel increases your chances of getting infected with and spreading COVID-19. Staying home is the best way to protect yourself and others from getting sick. If you decide to travel, please be aware of the current travel advisory issued by the Washington Governor before participating in recreational activities.

Travel Advisory for Non-Essential Travel: (1.11.2021)

- Persons arriving in Washington from other states or countries, including returning Washington residents, should practice self-quarantine for 14 days after arrival. These persons should limit their interactions to their immediate household.

- Washingtonians are encouraged to stay home or in their region and avoid non-essential travel to other states or countries. Avoiding travel can reduce the risk of virus transmission and bringing the virus back to Washington.

- Check travel restrictions, as each state, local, and territorial governments may have travel restrictions in place, including testing requirements, stay-at-home orders, and quarantine requirements upon arrival.

After traveling, recommendations from the CDC state that if you feel you or those you were traveling with were compromised in any way, please do not attend any non-essential activities. You may feel well and not display any symptoms, but you can still spread the virus to others. You and your travel companions (including children) may pose a risk to your family, friends, and community.

- Consider getting tested with a viral test 3–5 days after your trip and reduce non-essential activities for a full 7 days after travel, even if your test is negative. If you don't get tested, consider reducing non-essential activities for 10 days.
- Give notification to the Park District to issue a refund for any registered activities per our refund policy.

We want to thank all those who continue to support the Bainbridge Island Metro Park & Recreation District through these challenging times.
